JUSTICE

Justice means fair and reasonable treatment. Justice means that whatever is happening in the society, whether it is right or Justiciable. If not, then to establish the right and Justiciable within the society and if a person doesn't know how to differentiate between right and wrong, then he cannot establish justice in society. Justice is not just for people of one caste or religion or people of a particular society, it is for all, everyone should get it whether it is rich, poor, general, Dalit. A good example of this is the code of criminal procedure 1973 and civil procedure code 1908, there are many provision related to poor people in the C. P. C. and Cr.PC, so that justice can be delivered to the poorest of the poor.

LEGAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS

There are different types of institutions, services and authorities etc. inside India, which are working to reach more and more justice in the society. That can be different. Like before 2005 people could not get information from the department, but after 2005 under right to information act 2005 people can get information. Information commissions were set up in every state. There are many commissions so that people can get justice as quickly as possible. Example - Uttar Pradesh Human right commission, lokayukt, RTI, Uttar Pradesh consumer redressal commission, Anti-corruption department, vigilance department etc. There are many other type of institutions that get justice in society as quickly as possible, Apart from this if they talk about law colleges, then they also have an important role. They also perform different types of procedures like – legal aid, write petition, NGO etc.

ROLE OF LEGAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS

There are many types of legal services and institutions in the society that provide justice like- courts, Lokadalat, fast track courts, commission, authority, college, NGO . Role of NGO is most important role to provide justice. During Covid 19 many NGO provide food for poor people. For example Hoot welfare society is a NGO in Lucknow, they also have an important role in the society.

TO APPLY THE RIGHT THINGS IN THE SOCIETY

It is the duty of all legal services and institutions to apply what is true and straightforward in such a way that everyone can know it easily, could use that matter when more time comes.

USE THE RIGHT LANGUAGE

This means that any services or institutions are there, they will all use the same language so that every person can understand it easily. Use the local language as much as possible.

LEGAL AWARENESS

It is very lacking in society, people don't recognize their right and duties, which often leads to exploitation and people have to face injustice instead of justice.

JUST, FAIR AND REASONABLE

It plays a major role because if one is getting justice then he is getting along with justice reason and the third principle of natural justice is the reasoned decision.

CONCLUSION

Justice falls in the category of justice so long as it is found at the right time and it doesn't harm any other person and whatever justice is given should be clean with reason.
